ITALY WARNS ROUMANIA IN BALKAN TILT

Rumblings of Impending Hostilities Continue to Come From Dardanelles

BRITISH PLAYING FOR TIME

Allied Powers Agree to Call Conference To Settle
Greeko-Turk War

BULLETIN
Rome — Italy officially informed Rumania that she will not permit any action by Bulgaria which would change the present status quo in the Balkans and is ready if necessary, to take recourse to military measures.

RUMBLE CONTINUE
London — While the Allied powers are feverishly endeavoring to arrange a peace conference to clean the slate between Turkey and Greece and prevent more fighting in the Near East, rumblings of impending hostilities continue to come from Constantinople and the Dardanelles.

A relatively small force of British troops is holding Chanak, the key position on the southern shore of the straits while the Turkish nationalists, eager for further conquests after their overwhelming defeat of the Greeks, are concentrated outside the neutral zone at Ismid and Chanak, impatiently awaiting the word from Mustapha Kemal Pasha to advance.

WANT THRACE
If their spokesmen at Constantinople is to be believed, the Allies have not yet decided the path of their desire to re-occupy Thrace.

A ray of hopes, however, is seen in the conference at Smyrna between Mustapha Kemal Pasha and Gen.
Felix, French high commissioner, to which Yussuf Kemal Bey, the nationalist foreign minister has been hastily summoned from Angora. The ceiling of important and delicate questions and the consequent delay raises hopes that the Turkish attack if it takes place at all, will be retarded until the British reinforcements can arrive.

BRITISH FORCE SMALL
If fighting breaks out before that time the question of the safety of the comparatively small British force at Chanak, will become an anxious one here.

Marshal Foch is quoted as saying that position is absolutely untenable except if held by a very considerable force, while Field Marshal Plumer who has been inspecting the British defenses is said to have sent a message which Premier Lloyd George communicated to the cabinet, to the effect that he has great confidence in the result of collaboration between British and French forces.

WANT TURK VIEW
Paris — The Allied powers are agreed upon the quick summoning of a peace conference to settle the Turkish problem but the delicate questions as to the basis of negotiations acceptable to the Angora government is still to be answered.

It was principally to sound out the Kemalist on this source that the entire statesmen adjourned their conversations until Friday and Thursday efforts were going forward to obtain the Turkish view.

TO PROTECT SULTAN
Constantinople — An important council, convened over by the Sultan, was held Thursday night at which the position of Caliph was discussed in the event the nationalists forcibly take Constantinople. The heir apparent and other principal personages were present and measures for the protection of the sultan were decided upon.

WAR BULLETINS

FRENCH, ITALIANS WITHDRAW Constantinople — The French and Italian detachments and flags were withdrawn from the neutral zones of Ismid and the Dardanelles on orders from Constantinople.

GENERAL GIVES WARNING
Constantinople — General Harrington of the British army, as the general officer in chief command of the Allied forces, has issued a communique in which he declares that responsibility for the consequences of the violation of the neutral zone will fall upon the authors of such violations. In both Allied and Turkish circles here, there is a growing belief that the next Near East conference will be held in Constantinople.

BUY WHEAT

through a French firm has contracted

SENATE KILLS
BONUS AS VETO IS SUSTAINED

Four Votes Short To Make Bill
Lawful Without Executive
Signature

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — For a third time the soldiers' bonus legislation has failed of enactment.
The senate late Wednesday sustained President Harding's veto of the Fordney McCumber bill, the vote of 44 to 28 falling four short of the two-thirds majority that would have been necessary to have made it a law without the executive's signature.
Five hours before the senate acted the house overrode the veto 258 to 54.
The action of the senate makes impossible veterans' compensation legislation at least until the next session of congress, which will begin early in December. Meantime however, it is the purpose of some proponents to continue the fight and the bonus may become an issue in some of the congressional and senatorial campaigns this fall.

that being half an hour after the fire on his visit to the United States to dis-debt and to regulate jointly with the American treasury officials the entire question of the issuance of bonds and the rate of interest on them, though the important point of a sinking fund for the debt may not be considered if the British government decides to retire the bonds as they come due.

Would Restrict Colleges
To Aristocracy Of Brains

By Associated Press
Hanover, N. H. — Opportunities of higher education ought to be increasingly restricted to an aristocracy of brains, composed of the intellectually alert and eager, if democracy is to become a quality product rather than one of quantity, President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth college said in addressing the student body at the opening of the academic year Thursday.
"Too many men are going to college," he declared.
"Too often men reputed to be seeking an education are only seeking

DISCLOSING OF DEFICIT BLOW TO OFFICIALS

$650,000,000 Shortage Faces Country—Cause of Bonus Veto

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922 by Post Publishing Co.
Washington — Entirely apart from the fact that President Harding vetoed the bonus bill, a profound impression has been made by the official disclosure that a deficit of $650,000,000 faces the country for the fiscal year which began last July and ends June 30th next.
Government experts went over the estimated expenditures carefully and figures submitted detailed to the president before he wrote his message but were unable to promise any better showing of government finances.
This means in a nutshell that congress cannot afford to authorize the expenditure of any more money and even the pension bills and river and harbor proposals which are pending are likely to be vetoed if they are put up to Mr. Harding. In other words, the brakes must be put on to keep the deficit from growing and the departments will be required to economize still further in an effort to cut down the deficit itself.

BLOW TO POLITICIANS
Most uncomfortable too is the accuse of acknowledging a deficit of $650,000,000 at a time when the campaign orators would have found it so effective to refer to the splendid work done in balancing the budget for the fiscal year which ended in June 1922.
As a matter of fact the government did finance itself well and balanced the budget when it had appeared that there would be a deficit of from ten to fifty million dollars.
No such promises of reduction of the deficit can be made this time unless revenues are derived from unexpected sources. The most that can be hoped for is a reduction of the deficit from about $650,000,000 to about half that sum and even this is by no means certain.

The deficit arises largely from the fact that congress reduced the receipts from taxation through the new revenue law and there was an unlooked for shrinkage in tax receipts due to the business depression. Congress can hardly increase taxes now so the alternative is reduction of expenditure. But even this is easier said than done for on the veterans' bureau alone $530,000,000 will be spent this year or more than half of what used to be expended in pre-war days for Uncle Sam's entire budget.
There is no telling how much greater than $530,000,000 the expenses for disabled veterans and vocational training will run, but the government's policy is to spare no money in that direction.
In order to cut the $650,000,000 deficit down somewhat it is likely that the government will sell some of the railroad securities which it took from the railroads during government operation when various sums were lent them for equipment.

FORD PLANTS TO

Motor company in the Detroit district, closed last Saturday because of the coal situation, thereby throwing 100,000 Ford workers out of work in cially announced.

Orders for the reopening of the plants were telegraphed here Thursday by Edsel B. Ford, president of merce commission's service order No.

CLOCK FOILS BANK
ROBBERS; ESCAPE

Three Masked Men Stage Midnight Robbery Attempt at Big Falls, Wis.

By Associated Press
Big Falls, Wis. — Forcing the cashier to open the outer door of the bank's vault only to find themselves foiled by a time lock on an inner door, bandits who early Thursday attempted to rob the Big Falls State bank locked L. C.
Arndt, the cashier in the bank and escaped in Mr. Arndt's automobile. The auto was recovered later.
Mr. Arndt who had been visiting near the village was returning home in his car at midnight and was stopped on a lonely portion of the road by three masked men, who pointed revolvers at him and ordered a halt.
The bandits blindfolded the cashier and one of the gunmen took the wheel of the machine and drove to the bank.
The cashier was led to the door of the big vault and compelled to manipulate the combination.
The big door swung open revealing the inner chamber guarded by another time lock. This was equipped with a time lock and although the gunmen were furious, the cashier succeeded in convincing them that it was impossible for even him to get into it.
Locking their captive in the bank, the gunmen jumped into the auto and sped away. At daylight Mr. Arndt's car was found abandoned near Tiger town 20 miles away.

THE STAGE

"The Picture Beautiful" at Fischer's Appleton Today

The much heralded "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight" picture opens today for a three-day run at Fischer's Appleton Theatre.

The Story

Garry Beecher meets chorus girl with whom he falls in love. Forgetting his mother and lifelong sweetheart, Lorna, he goes to the city, but arrives to see his idol leave in the company of a millionaire. He returns home, and is tempted to rob his former employer. With plenty of money he returns to the city, seizes Lorna and starts on a career of reckless spending. His money runs out. Despite this fact he buys the girl a diamond necklace. He is unable to pay and threatened with arrest, he seeks to recover the necklace. The girl refuses to surrender it, but when Garry angrily demands it she steals into her room, quietly summons the police and then hands the necklace to the youth, just as the police arrive. Garry is arrested on a charge of grand larceny, convicted and sentenced to ten years in prison. Back home his mother and sweetheart patiently await his return. Realizing that his mother's heart is broken, Lorna sends her letters with Garry's signature. These letters come as a Godsend to the brokenhearted mother. In prison, Garry saves the warden from an attack from one of the prisoners. A friendship between Garry and the warden results. The warden learns of Garry's mother and urges the boy to write to her. A wholesale break is perpetrated by the prisoners, who seize the warden, hold up the guards and escape. Garry follows. The prisoners, who with the warden were securely tied, commandeer an engine and the dash for liberty starts. Garry commandeers an automobile. A race between engine and automobile follows. At a crossing Garry gets the opportunity to jump on the engine. A terrific fight with two of the prisoners results in a victory for Garry, who grabs the warden just as a freight train is sighted coming in the opposite direction. At the crossing, he grabs the warden and jumps to a tank to safety. A moment later the collision comes. The warden grateful to Garry, devotes his time to securing a pardon for the young boy, who, wiser and a better son, returns to his lonely mother and awaiting sweetheart, never to leave home again.

Alfred and Francis Bradford are away on a week's hunting and fishing trip on Wolf river.

11 CLUBS TO AID IN CHARTER JUBILEE

New London Rotary Club Will Entertain More Than 250 Guests Friday

Eleven Rotary clubs will be represented at the charter meeting of the newly organized club at New London Friday evening. The largest representation will be from Appleton, Green Bay and Oshkosh. Other clubs that will be represented are Neenah, Menasha, Berlin, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Wausau and Merrill.

Supper will be served at 7 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus hall to about 250 guests. Dr. Austin Olmstead of Green Bay, district governor, will present the charter to the club. Appleton Rotarians will meet at the Sherman house at 6 o'clock and auto to New London from there. The New London club was organized through the efforts of a committee of French critics. It numbers about 23 members. The president is Ellis Caley, principal of the Wausau-Cole training school, and the secretary is the Rev. Walter Sharrett, pastor of the English Lutheran church there. Specially printed invitations bearing description of New London industries and institutions were sent to the members of the delegations who will attend.

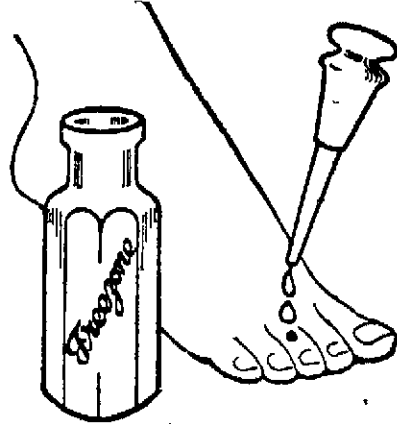

OFFERS FRENCH BOOKS FOR USE OF LIBRARY

Through the courtesy of Miss Anna Tenney, the Public library is able to offer its readers a French book a month, which is the choice of a committee of French critics. Miss Tenney is a member of a French club organized by the Schoenhof Book company of Boston for the promotion of reading modern French literature. Each member of the club is sent one book a month and Miss Tenney has offered to give her copies to the library.

Many of the books which were picked by the committee last year were later crowned by the French academy. Maria Chapdelaine, which has been so popular in translation, was one of the list last year. Two books are now ready for circulation, "La Randonnee de Samba Diouf" by Jerome and Jean Tharaud and "L'Epithalame" by Jacques Char-donne.

"BANDITS" PLEASE IN SECOND STAGING

Cast Is Entertained by Legion Post at Banquet and Dance After Show

Practically every one of approximately 2,000 people who saw "Blue Bandits," the comic opera, which was produced by an amateur cast under the auspices of the Onev Johnson post of the American legion, was more than satisfied with the production. The second performance which was given to an even larger audience than the first went off without a hitch, although there were several funny incidents which J. T. McDonough had not written into the lines.

(Speaking of things written into the lines, that joke which caused so much comment was really written by the producer and author into the lines and poor Silas Bean got all the blame. Silas was right there with his comeback, however.)

People who saw the performance cannot say enough for the splendid manner in which the show was produced. Every actor and actress, whether he or she had had experience before or was making a debut in the "Blue Bandits" was exceptionally good in the part. No better evening's enjoyment has been offered to so large a crowd in Appleton for many years.

After the performance, the members of the cast were entertained at a banquet and dance at Elk hall. Although the performers were a bit weary after the two nights run, the fun of putting on the play was continued until the strains of "Home Sweet Home" went floating through the hall.

Mrs. C. D. Ingethron, 551 Morrison St., says: "I had kidney trouble and suffered from distressing backaches and pains across my loins. Nights, my back ached and pained badly and mornings I was stiff and lame. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and I have had no occasion to use a kidney medicine since. I give Doan's the credit for my cure." adv.

BROWN-CO. TAKES RAID PRISONERS

Cox and Mortell Taken to Green Bay Jail—Moonshine Sale Is Charged

Ray Cox and James Mortell of Buchanan, who were apprehended in a moonshine raid staged by federal and state prohibition enforcement officers and Appleton police Wednesday, have been turned over to the Brown-co. authorities after spending a night in the city jail.

Cox is charged with selling moonshine whisky at a still he operated on his father's farm in Buchanan, a part of which is located just over the Brown-co. line. The raid was made after an investigation following the death of Roy O'Connell in an automobile accident Sunday. Sheriff Nick Ryan of Green Bay took the prisoners with him Thursday to the Brown-co. jail. The still, it was learned, was located in that county.

The question of turning the farmer and farm hand over to the federal court seems to have been dropped by the prohibition agents.

Examines P. O. Men

Herman French, assistant postmaster and secretary of the local civil service commission, conducted an examination for clerk-carrier in the postoffice service at Kaukauna Saturday. Due to the fact that the two postoffices in that city are to be consolidated and a carrier system adopted the first of the year, there were 29 applicants. The examinations were held in the high school building.

WHOOPIING COUGH WANES; NO CONTAGION IN CITY

Appleton has no quarantined homes at present and less than half a dozen placarded homes according to Dr. W. C. Felton, health officer. The placards are due to the presence of whooping cough. Only one case of whooping cough was reported last week and placards were removed from four residences. The city is free from scarlet fever, diphtheria, smallpox and chickenpox for the first time in several months.

FOUR WHEEL DRIVE COMPANY MAKES GASOLINE TRAIN

Clintonville Automobile Concern Develops Gas Train for Pullman Co.

Just how far the manufacture of gasoline railway equipment will go in the development of light cars and trains for the practical and efficient replacement of heavy trains, is probably being experimented on by the Pullman Company of Chicago, which has bought a gasoline train from the Four Wheel Auto Company of Clintonville.

While other manufacturers confined their efforts largely to the single car unit, the Four Wheel Drive Co. went a step further and developed a two-car gasoline railroad train equipped with all steel bodies built and mounted by the Pullman Co. The train had just been completed and is now being used for demonstration purposes in Chicago.

The bodies are built in true Pullman style throughout and are capable of carrying 46 passengers and baggage. The forward car of the train is the power unit and is divided into two sections, one for a baggage and motor man's compartment and the other equipped to carry passengers and to be used as a Jim Crow or smoking section. The rear car is devoted entirely to the accommodation of the passengers. It contains 16 seats and accommodates 32 passengers.

USE DISTRICT PLAN IN Y. M. C. A. DRIVE

Teams in Membership Campaign Will Have Systematic Territorial Areas

A departure from the usual Y. M. C. A. membership campaign methods here is the division of the city into districts and subdistricts, rather than allowing the campaign teams to strike out into all directions.

To facilitate the work of districting the city, a large map has been prepared on which the name of every member has been fixed by means of a slip and pin at the respective member's address.

The location of the members led to the work of defining the boundaries for four districts and those for six or seven subdistricts. The city has been divided into northwest, south west, northeast and southeast sections. The northwest section lies north of Franklin st. and west of Durkee st. The northeast section is east of Durkee st. and north of Franklin st.

The southwest section lies south of Franklin st. and all north of the Fox river and west of Durkee st. but not including the two blocks bounded by Franklin, Morrison and Durkee sts. and College ave. The southeast section includes all of the Fourth ward as well as that area north of the Fox river that is south of Franklin st. and east of Durkee st., including also the two blocks just mentioned.

Non-resident members residing in Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Green ville, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Combined Locks, Little Chute, Green Bay, John Wausau, Eau Claire, Milwaukee and Chicago, will be apportioned equally to the various campaign teams.

Relief For Fat Or Slim Assured Women By Club

"You're too fat," said one woman. "Well, you're too thin," said another.

"Being fat or thin isn't bad, but what would you do if you had flat feet?" queried a third.

"I'll tell you all what to do," said a fourth, who was a member of the health department of Appleton Women's club. "Join Miss Adams' corrective class and learn to remedy all the things that are wrong with you. She promises to make the fat, thin; the thin, fat; to correct fallen arches, to help lame backs. If she can do all the things she claims to do, she is a wonder."

It was about the health class which is to be started on Wednesday mornings by Miss Emily Adams, physical director of Appleton Women's club, under the direction of the health department. The class will deal with proper exercises and diet for the women who are either over or under weight. The class will begin at 10 o'clock and continue one hour, so that mother may get home in time to prepare lunch for the husband and hungry children.

Registration for this class is going on now and any member of the club who feels that she has some physical defect which should be corrected is urged to join. The class work will be preceded by physical examination by your own physician or one provided by the club. Although Miss Adams promises to do wonders, she says that she refuses to take any chances with weak nerves and high blood pressure.

By the way, to join the class will be a confession of age for only women between the ages of 25 and 100 will be eligible. Regular gymnasium classes offered by the recreation department will correct the overweight or underweight of the younger women.

WIDOW OF K. C. CO. FOUNDER IS DEAD

Funeral of Mrs. Carrie F. Clark
Is Held in Neenah—Leaves
Two Children

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Carrie F. Clark, 77, were held from the former residence in Neenah at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Dr. D. C. Jones of the Presbyterian church was in charge and interment was in Oakhill cemetery, Neenah.

Mrs. Clark was the widow of the late Charles B. Clark, one of the founders of Kimberly-Clark Company, and died at her home on East Wisconsin ave., Neenah, Monday night after a lingering illness. Death was due to a combination of causes which brought about a general breakdown attendant upon her age.

Decedent was the daughter of William F. Hubbard and Julia A. Taylor of Buckland, Mass., and was born at Ashland, Jefferson co., Ill. Dec. 27, 1849. She became the wife of Charles B. Clark, one of the industrial pioneers of Fox river valley, who died Sept. 10, 1891. Mrs. Clark had been a resident of Neenah for 70 years. Two children, Mrs. Brannon Hubbard of Montgomery, Ala., and C. B. Clark, former mayor of Neenah, survive. There are also five grandchildren.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. adv.

The nutpickers scampered from the spot only to find that the sentinel was a boy armed with an air rifle.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO

It will have to be admitted by even the bonus advocates that President Harding in his message vetoing the adjusted compensation act makes out a good case for his position. The strength of his position lies in his criticism that congress in enacting this legislation, which imposes a credit liability against the government of upwards of $4,000,000,000, has made no provision for financing the obligation. It may be answered to this that the next congress or a succeeding one will make provision for financing the bonus, but this is hardly sufficient. Government is not operated in this manner, any more than are banks or businesses. The government must finance itself, it must be able to meet its commitments, its solvency and its ability to pay must at all times be apparent to its creditors. It cannot obligate itself to pay billions by a mere stroke of the pen and make no provision for payment. It cannot engage in public improvements without money or without authorized loans. It cannot meet a four billion dollar bonus obligation without money or authorized notes or bonds. The government is no different than any private concern in these matters.

Congress has enacted a bonus law without even suggesting how the billions it bestows on the ex-service men are to be raised. For instance, the direct cost of the bonus for the year 1923 is estimated at $145,000,000. Where is this money to come from? It will not bloom on trees nor come down out of the sky. Neither is provision made for a reserve to meet deferred payments, which in the latter years of the adjusted compensation period will be heavy.

The government is hard pressed for funds with which to meet its current expenses, pay interest on the bonded indebtedness and provide for the taking up of obligations which ought not to be funded. It has all it can do, and a little more, to make both ends meet with the existing amount of revenue, even after effecting large economies. We think it is a common sense proposition that revenue should be provided with which to pay the bonus. If congress had created a means for raising additional revenue out of which to pay the adjusted compensation, such as a sales tax, it would be quite a different matter. The government would have the money to pay the compensation. The government need not be particular how it gets the money, because the people must contribute it in the last analysis by whatever means it is raised, but money there must be.

The president's attitude toward the adjusted compensation question ought to commend itself to the ex-service men more than the attitude of congress. Certainly the president appears in a better light, even with his veto. Congress has played politics with the bonus from start to finish. It has exhibited the rankest kind of political cowardice in facing the problem. It has passed the bill at the eleventh hour solely to get the votes of the bonus advocates. The president warned congress many months ago that he would approve bonus legislation only in the event that it carried with it the means of defraying the cost. Congress had no right to ignore this warning, which was legitimate and proper in every way. But congress can think only in terms of politics and votes. It was an easy thing to pass a law granting the bonus but providing no way to pay it. It served the exigencies of the moment. It gave the appearance of extricating congress from the unpleasant dilemma it had faced for months.

It is congress who has cheated the veterans of the World War rather than the president, if they are forced to wait for the discharge by the government of its just obligation to them. America is amply able to pay adjusted compensation. There can be no argument against it on the score of inability to pay, nor because the government is already heavily involved as a result of the war. These obligations are small in comparison with our national wealth. They are small in comparison with the benefits we received from the service of the men in 1917 and 1918. We have met all our other obligations and we can meet this one. It is not a question of ability to pay. President Harding does not raise this point at all. He simply objects to committing the government to a physical impossibility. A more dishonest piece of legislation was never enacted by congress than this bill, and if it results in disappointment and ill-feeling it is congress that ought to take the medicine.

GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE IN BUSINESS

One of the questions raised by the railroad strike is whether we have not gone too far in government interference with business and in the relations of capital and labor. When the agreement was reached the other day between the New York Central railroad and the Conductors' and Trainmen's brotherhoods, an agreement by the way which ignored the Railroad Labor board, President W. G. Lee of the Trainmen made this significant statement:

I am glad we are going backward. For a quarter of a century we did business with the railroad executives—I know them all—across the table, and that is the only way peace can be maintained and results achieved. We can settle our affairs without any meddling by politicians. A decade ago, when no outside machinery existed that could gum up negotiations and bedevil issues, we used to fight across the table, but at night when they were over we would go out to dinner together. We are getting back to that now.

President Smith of the New York Central agreed that the understanding reached with the men was a "happy augury of a better era in the conduct of transportation service." The Pennsylvania and the Lehigh Valley railroads followed in making direct agreements with the two brotherhoods. The separate arrangements made by some fifty odd railroads and the striking shopmen under the so-called Baltimore plan represent the spirit voiced by Mr. Lee and Mr. Smith in their comment cited above.

For the last ten or twenty years we have been putting our heads more and more into the halter of government regulation. Certain control by the nation as well as by the states over public utilities cannot of course be escaped. The relations of these enterprises to the people and to the welfare of the entire country are so direct and intimate that some authority over them must be exercised. But there are limits to which this authority may be extended with prudence and good results.

We believe today the temper of the people has reacted against excessive government interference in private enterprise. We do not believe any business can successfully thrive, or that it can best serve the public, where the government steps in and says what it can charge for its products or service and what it must pay its employees. Federal control over certain practices of corporations and of utilities is quite different from regulation needlessly imposed or stupidly enforced. The experiences of the Railroad Labor board are a case in point, for certainly its attempts at regulation and mediation have been unsatisfactory alike to the railroads, to the employees, and to the public. The Daugherty injunction went still further to prejudice the people against government intervention in industrial and labor disputes.

On the whole the less the politicians have to do with industry and commercial affairs, with the business machinery of the nation, including its transportation, the better off the American people will be. We think it is a common sense view that employer and employee can ordinarily adjust their relations satisfactorily and keep on terms of good understanding, with justice alike to both sides, better than where outside agencies attempt to handle their affairs and say what they shall or shall not do. Both capital and labor have been taught a great deal by the strife of the last thirty years. We believe they are tending toward the conclusion that the efforts to do away with this strife by government intervention have been largely futile, and that saner results will be obtained if direct dealings are substituted for political mediation and state regulation.

DON'T GO WEST

Everything I say here brings a more or less heated reply from somebody whose pure motive is merely to enlighten me or dispel my obvious bias on the subject. The other day a lady who lives not far from Chicago sent me a protest against my reiteration of the fact that victims of pulmonary tuberculosis may recover as certainly and as rapidly at home, wherever they may live, as they can far from home, out beyond the rainbow. The lady's protest was based on the important fact that her uncle had gone west and apparently recovered, although he "took cold" a year or two after he returned east, and succumbed to tuberculosis.

Jessamine Whitney, statistician of the National Tuberculosis association has made a survey in Colorado Springs, Denver, El Paso, Los Angeles, Phoenix and San Antonio and published the conclusions in the Journal of Outdoor Life of March, 1922. In these six cities, whether so many ill-advised victims of tuberculosis go in search of the rainbow, there were no less than 7,319 tuberculosis persons being cared for by medical agencies. Sixty-three per cent of all the indigent tuberculosis were non-residents. Of those classed as residents, in Denver, all but 73 had originally come in search of health.

Contrast such conditions with conditions in Cleveland, where only ten per cent of consumptives being cared for at public expense are non-residents. To send a tuberculous invalid "out west" without assurance that he has financial means to pursue his search for health is simply to send him to his death. It is a dreadful thing for such a sufferer to find himself without means of support and compelled to seek public charity far from home.

It was found that six states were largely responsible for this exodus of rainbow hunters—Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Pennsylvania and New York. More than half of the tuberculosis who had migrated asserted that physicians at home had advised them to "go west." The doctor who puts such an idea in a patient's head, without specifying where the patient is to go, is simply dodging his responsibility and betraying incompetence. The educated physician, as well as the intelligent patient nowadays, knows how absurd any such course would be, as it rounds to the unsophisticated.

Suitable employment in these favored resorts of the tuberculous is almost non-existent. Few states have public institutions open to non-residents. Therefore the tragedy—many victims who might have made good recoveries had they remained at home—of intelligent medical attendance and kindly care, suffer miserably in an alien country and—well, they go west.

Well, to do patients may possibly afford the luxury of going west to chase the cure. But however pleasant the climate, it doesn't cure more certainly than the climate back home.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Is there any kind of medicine that will really cure nervousness. The kind where the party is easily excited so you can't rest by their voice. Will tea and coffee drinking do this?—(A. H. A.)

Answer—There is no kind of illness which is really attributable to nervousness. One who takes tea or coffee excessively will probably talk too fast—without saying much. Easy going folk of all sorts, of things like to ascribe their illness to "nerves" or "nervousness" or "nervous exhaustion." It doesn't mean anything. Perhaps that is why nervous persons like the term. Neurosthenics—mostly self confessed—will be indignant with me for speaking so "unprofessionally" about nervousness, but they're always indignant with me anyway.

Stammering.

Recently I wrote to you for advice about stammering. I received a letter of instructions from you and I have faithfully followed the exercises recommended, with the result that for the first time in my life I have not stammered for several weeks at a time, but this is only temporary, and now and then when I become a little nervous or embarrassed I begin stammering again. How can one overcome this?—(Miss H. B. M.)

Answer—Follow the instructions some more. If a little is good more is better, in this instance.

No Names in the Paper.

1. Is it dangerous to ruff the hair? 2. Will cold cream grow hair on the face? 3. What is a salt bath and what is it good for? 4. Have you a lotion for shiny nose? 5. I am 16 years old, five feet and three inches tall, and weigh 124 pounds. Is that correct? 6. I do not wear a corset. Will this make one's hips flat? Thanking you all advance. Do not put my name in the paper. (Miss H. B. M.)

Answer—No. 2, No. 3, I don't know, 4, yes, apply once or twice daily a solution of 10 grains of salicylic acid and 10 grains of resorcin in two ounces of toilet water. 5, yes, 6, no. Names of correspondents or their identities are never divulged. Copyright National Newspaper Service.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

KIPLING'S REPUDIATED

INTERVIEW "BREAK"

FAST TALK TALK

Rudyard Kipling's repudiation of the sentiments he was alleged to have contained toward the United States in a recent interview attributed to him seems to have added to, rather than diminished, the interest with which his remarks have been received throughout the United States. The New York WORLD, which featured the article of Miss Clara Sheridan, after receiving the poet's denial, said: "That Mrs. Sheridan visited Mr. Kipling cannot be doubted. That she held the interview as outlined in the WORLD is, of course, a matter of issue between Mr. Kipling and herself. Those who know Mr. Kipling's views on the subject of America will not have much question as to the authorship of the statements attributed to him."

To this the New York TRIBUNE replies that "Mr. Kipling is a blunt speaker. There is no more caustic analysis of American character than his lines on 'The American Spirit.' But such considered candor is one thing. Casual, private talk, torn from its setting and twisted by a care-free listener is another. If all the private talk of the great men of the world were repeated by gossiping women and spread broadcast there would be precious little chance of international understanding. The power of a newspaper to improve or debase international relations is very great. Its conduct should be correspondingly acute."

There also must be recalled, the Washington STAR says, that the "repudiated interview always leaves a question in the public mind." It suggests that "maybe he talked freely because he felt secure from print," but insists that upon his denial "the record must be closed," and points out "it will be remembered that a single bit of verse, written years ago, stands between Rudyard Kipling and the post laureateship of England. While the descendants of the 'Widow of Windsor' rule England he will never broach the butt of Canary." The Springfield REPUBLICAN likewise avails the position that "this quarrel is with her and Americans have no quarrel with him. It is particularly pleasing that Mrs. Clara Sheridan is not an American nor an American newspaper correspondent. The English must assume responsibility for having his June talk exploited in a September issue of a New York newspaper he must first have it out with his own countrywoman." The Wall Street JOURNAL holds that the interview was published for politics.

For the most part the editorial forum agrees that the sentiments expressed accurately reflected Mr. Kipling's personal views and as such they are debated. The Baltimore SUN asks "why resent the truth?" and says that "the poet champion of underdogs is not far wrong when he refers to our war profits and to our commercial morality. There were many cordial hearts and sordid motives back of our action and we should not get mad if somebody taunts us with it and rubs the truth into a sore spot. Kipling has a right to remind us that we are not quite so virtuous as we have a right to remind him that Britania's skirts have a good deal of mud on them." Replying to Senator Borah's charge that "Kipling has slandered the American dead," the Memphis COMMERCIAL APPEAL argues that repudiation of our European obligations was even more of a slander saying that "it is good and honorable and patriotic to resent any and all slanders heaped upon our dead who died in what has thus far been a vain cause, but what about those who have made the cause vain and hopeless? What about those who have broken faith with the dead?"

The specific allegations attributed to Kipling are sufficiently answered by the records, the Petersburg PROGRESS AND INDEX APPEAL is convinced, but it holds that Mr. Kipling can blame only himself if his pettish, childish and silly attack upon America causes Americans to give utterance to many things that they have had in the back of their heads for a long time, but have refrained from putting into speech. The Dayton DAYTON NEWS says, "a man of Mr. Kipling's conceit might easily have said these things and meant them. It does not require a Kipling to describe or limit our contributions. We left 60,000 dead in France and sent 24 billions in money to gain what we did within less than two years that we were represented on the long battle front. We amazed the world by our devotion to a world cause." The Indianapolis NEWS likewise recalls that "it is a matter of history that when America entered the war the allies were in desperate straits. Lloyd George said that it was a race between President Wilson and Hindenburg. British and French representatives in this country, among them Marshal Joffre, certainly described the situation as alarmingly critical and begged the President to rush troops as rapidly as possible. All this can be said without boasting." The Cincinnati TIMES STAR and "we forgive him, just as our grandfathers and great-grandfathers forgave Dickens. As to the effect upon the relations between England and America we shall charge it off that account which has on the other side of the ledger the twisting of the 'York' tail. It is an account which Great Britain's indifferent authors and orators can not overdraw in this day and generation."

Sentiments such as those attributed to Kipling are entertained "by the war shirkers, and shirkers and the post-war debt dodgers" in the view of the Buffalo TIMES but "he will not find it so with those either in field or council who bore the heat and burden of the day." While Kipling may have been "surprised, it is impossible to suppose that he was displeased, to find that his utterance of a common place that has been coming out of the mouths of Englishmen for many months," says the Boston TRANSCRIPT, "is taken up with indignation by the American people and turned back upon him as an insult—as a shameful slur laid on the graves of those who gave their lives on fields of blood. Could America, with her own voice, say 'Never again' more sharply than Rudyard Kipling has said it for her." His "bitterness toward America is natural," the Chicago JOURNAL says, "but his complaints are not founded on facts, and his attitude, besides being childish, is profoundly unwise."

The incident "has served a fairly good purpose by bringing some notable reputations from prominent Englishmen argues the Syracuse HERALD which in addition suggests "that in the issue of veracity raised it is unfortunate for him that the opinions accredited to him agree with his former recorded judgments to the United States," while the Buffalo NEWS, agreeing that his opinions are very much anti-American, thinks "it is good to hear him repudiate the Clara Sheridan interview. The observations contained in it were unworthy of him. Of course Mrs. Sheridan is placed in a peculiar position by his repudiation but that can't be helped. The ready-writers of the drawing room—the lesser Margot Asquiths—that follow devious ways of journalism must expect unpleasant experiences. They frequently receive no more consideration than the reporters of the back stairs."

A EUROPEAN POLICY

Paris.—The real desire of the people of France, according to Gustave Rodrigues, is for a United States of Europe, through the League of Nations. He says in L'ERE NOUVELLE:

"Are we, or are we not, going to have a European policy in France? Are we going to understand that the international situation is part of the International situation, and that we cannot solve alone even problems which interest us almost alone?"

"Certain signs seem to show that a happy change is taking place. The senatorial commission of foreign affairs used conciliating and intelligent language at one of the last meetings. Even admitting that we have every right to march into Germany it would be a great mistake to make use of this right without the consent of our allies. No doubt such a demonstration would make a great impression, but what practical results would follow?"

"None, as far as we can see. We should not get paid but we should get hated, we should cause the sentiments of imperialism and revenge to develop beyond the Rhine, as well as feelings of mistrust and suspicion across the Channel and perhaps across the Atlantic. We would get nothing, or next to nothing from Germany; but Great Britain and the United States would claim the payment of our debts more urgently than ever."

"As M. d'Estournelles de Constant quite rightly said at the senatorial commission, the more isolated we are, the more stubborn will the Germans be. They will give in much more easily if we act together with our allies."

"For some time, even in parliament, attention has been called to the fact that we missed the opportunity of profiting by the democratic current which was rife in Germany. Does not everybody remember our tactlessness with regard to Kurt Eisner the day after the armistice? If we had only upheld the democracy and imposed it on the German Reich, there is no doubt about it that we should today be in a more favorable position in Europe."

"At the last elections, the country certainly manifested its will. It desires nothing else than universal pacification and democratization of the German people. In the liberated regions the candidates who included German labor in their reparations program obtained large majorities. What could be more natural? Indeed, that is the cause which destroyed the houses built them up again? Always common sense in opposition to nationalism."

"It was also very plainly notified to the authorities that a republican France was wanted, one true to her traditions, and not a France of militarism and reaction, as she appeared at Genoa and London. It would be so easy to adopt an attitude which would answer to our real interests and our deepest sentiments."

"It was our business to undertake the reconstruction, or rather the reconstruction of Europe. It is our business to attempt this great European confederation which is the only means of saving our poor and devastated continent."

"We have no personal ambitions. We do not dream of a world empire, neither of a naval hegemony nor a continental domination. We want free individuals, in free countries, with equal rights. We are perhaps the only ones who do not pursue this narrow and stupid policy of 'sacred selfishness,' the only ones who sincerely want everybody to have their place in the sun. Our word of command should be 'Towards the United States of Europe through the League of Nations,' for this is indeed our real and sincere desire."

"On the day when we declare this policy, everybody will follow us. Let us hope that in spite of the present blunders and mistakes this day soon will come. We used to be the leaders of the world's conscience. It is our fault if we do not lead today."

Faster Than Birds

Mail will be delivered from New York to San Francisco in 23 hours, promises Paul Henderson, postal official. The fastest bird, named "swift," could not keep up with the mail plane. The "swift" can fly faster than 100 miles an hour, but tires quickly.

It is less than 20 years since the Wright brothers were first to soar in an airplane, yet man already flies faster and higher than any bird. Also, more safely, for Henderson announces that the air mail service this year has flown 2,000,000 miles without a fatality.

The toddle, camel-walk and similar dances are observed in Chicago by E. N. Neuman. They take a long trip into central Africa—and the natives dancing the same steps. This surprises him, but it shouldn't. The distance from the Congo savanna to civilized man is mainly one of mileage. Civilized veneer is thin. Sailors say if three men are adrift long enough in a boat, the weakest two usually are eaten.

The mark is being thrown overboard so fast in Germany and the dollar taking its place in price quotations, that leagues of German consumers protest to their government. They say the sudden swing to the American dollar is making its price rise faster than the people's income can keep up with it.

In this you see German finance right-about-face. Speculation in the dollar takes the place of gambling with the mark.

Pola Negri arrives in New York. She will make pictures in American studios. It is rumored that her American managers are taking out $1,000,000 insurance to protect them in case she marries. Rumor further says that her contract agrees to relieve her of all obligations in event of marriage.

What chance has a serious economic subject when the public is called on to wonder if Pola is engaged, also the identity of "him"? Big problems remain unsolved only because the public refuses to become really interested in them. Average person is 95 per cent emotional, 5 per cent intellectual—which after all, may be for the best.

He takes out citizenship papers at the age of 96—Dr. James E. W. Ward. He says he has practiced his profession all over the world, and that he becomes a citizen of United States because "it is the only country with genuine liberty of thought and education."

Crabs will sneer at this. But the average person, being more level-headed than the professional spotlight posers, knows it is true. America is not perfect. But, taken as a whole, it is nearer perfect than any other country. Be thankful for occasional grumbling. It indicates a desire for perfection, the only force that can bring steady improvement.

Dr. J. R. Ward, 96, says he smoked 60 cigarettes a day and is against prohibition. Before grabbing his heavy smoking, consider this probability:

He is old despite his smoking, not on account of it. Ward attributes his longevity to minding his own business and never worrying about anything. A sensible formula.

Q. What are the seniority rights of the railway employees about which so much fuss is being made? R. T.

oil of citronella, 1 ounce; spirits of camphor, 1 ounce; oil of cedar, ¼ ounce.

Q. How did the expression "the four hundred" originate? J. D.

A. The four hundred is defined as the exclusive social set of a city. The phrase owes its origin to Ward McAllister, a New York society leader, who gave it as his opinion about the year 1883 that only that number of people were actually in society in New York City.

A. The geophone is an instrument invented during the World War for the purpose of detecting enemy mining operations. The first one was made by the French and had a radius of 75 yards. The United States geophone one that had nearly on-third greater range.

MME. RYDER WILL TELL HER HEARERS OF HER NUMBERS

Pianist Who Comes Here Monday Will Help to Develop Musical Appreciation

If you enjoy music, but have never had a thorough musical education, do you sometimes wish that an artist would tell you something about the selection? If you are a musician and you go to a concert where the artist makes explanatory remarks, do you twist about in your seat and feel that certainly it is too "low brow" to be great? If you have studied music somewhat indifferently and have forgotten many things about the great masterpieces, do you frankly enjoy being told concerning these selections?

Mme. Sturkow-Ryder, who will appear in a duo piano recital at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Monday evening under the auspices of Appleton Womens club and who has been making a countrywide tour, feels that a few explanatory remarks make every concert more worthwhile. She has worked out a way of bringing a few bits of information to her hearers that they will be likely to remember.

Because Mme. Sturkow-Ryder has been so interested in the development of an American musical appreciation, it is fitting that she should be the first musician of the year when Appleton is turning its attention so definitely to the development of a community musical appreciation. The pianist will be assisted in her concert here by Carl McKee well known baritone and Percy Fullinwider, Appleton's most prominent violinist. Both local artists have had many programs in Appleton that have been thoroughly appreciated by their audiences and will give splendid variety to the Sturkow-Ryder program.

Mrs. John Krug has charge of the ticket sale, which is being managed by the music department of Appleton Womens club. The project is a club affair, but is being managed by the department.

Adventures Of The Twins

Runs Moon in Old Way

Nobody ever heard of Comet-Legs again after he hopped on his shooting star and rode away.

But Mr. Peernabout, the Main-in-the-Moon, is still on the job. He decided the old way was the best way, to change the Moon a little bit each night, and in that way every person in the world was sure to be pleased at least part of the time.

He told the Twins to gather up all the complaining letters from the wood-folk and water-folk and messenger-folk and return them to the people who sent them, marked "unopened."

It wasn't exactly a polite thing to do, but one can't be driven to his wit's ends by a lot of complaining people who are never satisfied anyway—no matter what happens.

After that was settled, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, the Weatherman, said he'd be going home to Bluster-Gust Land, where he was sadly needed to attend to his rain-barrels and things.

Also he'd have to see to it that all the Nuisance Fairies were securely locked up. It was late spring and Jack Frost had no more right on the earth than a Christmas-tree at a fireworks-show.

The dream-fairies and the chimney-fairies had a fit of it, for with Comet-Legs out of the road, they had nobody to steal the nice little dreams they made. Wink and Blink hugged each other and did a little dance. They sang a song, too!

"Oh, happy young fairies are we! We're happy as happy can be! We slide down moon-beams. With such wonderful dreams."

That the children all love us to pieces, it seems.

And with us to Dreamland they flee!" Nancy and Nick said goodby to Mr. Peernabout, who promised to let them know if he needed them again, then they slid down a moon-beam, too.

They were ready for another adventure.

405 REPORTED IN RACE FOR MEMBERS

Total in Appleton Womens Club Campaign Is Expected to Exceed 500

More than 405 members enrolled in Appleton Womens club were reported at the end of the second day of the annual campaign for members, according to Mrs. Roy Marston, chairman. Many districts have not yet been reported and it is expected that the number will be many more than the 500, which the women prepared to collect at this time.

In many districts, every house has been visited by the workers, but in a few cases the women were not at home. It was the plan to ask every woman in Appleton to become a member of the club, but it is practically impossible for all the solicitors to return to their territory to meet those who were away on the first visit. Any women who have not been visited to become members.

The Franklin school report shows that it, too, is a 100-per cent building with every teacher a member of the club. Only a very small percentage of the teachers in the city have not joined the club this year. Although the official campaign will close on Thursday evening, Mrs. Marston and her membership committee will continue to work for new members throughout the entire year with the idea that every woman in Appleton should become affiliated with the club.

THE MARRIAGE SHIP

Chapter 17 — Piecing the Scraps

By Zoe Beckley

Fred pondered the scrap of letter, retracing in his mind all that had happened Saturday on his drive with Hanna Fuller. Watkins, shrewd reader of faces, saw the color mount suddenly in Fred's. He had just recalled James Stelyard's pleading manner as he came to their table at Claremont—the same note that breathed in the fragment of torn letter now in his hand.

"J. S." could mean only James Stelyard. He, the head of a great and honored automobile corporation, was the writer of this advice to buy Barringer Motor stock!

Then, too, there was Mrs. Fuller's careless remark, so abruptly cut off: "Mr. Stelyard is buying over a new make of car."

Of course it was the Barringer, a good little car that needed greater resources than the Barringer people had at their command to develop it. And here was Stelyard, wooing Mrs. Fuller with a secret that would perhaps make a fortune for her! This, then, was the meaning of her rumination.

"A Mrs. (Fuller) is pursued and wooed by B. (Stelyard), but herself is scorned in favor of D."

For an instant Fred puzzled as to who "D" might be, on whose account the charming and efficient Mrs. Fuller was scorned by whom? Then the vastly more interesting meaning of the scrap of letter dawned on him, and other considerations. It was all plain now. He who bought Barringer Motor stock at its then low price would make much money as holder of a Stelyard property.

Should Fred share his knowledge with the others? An instant later he was ashamed of his ungenerous thought. These chaps were his fellow workers. Mrs. Fuller was only a "prospect." He owed her no vow of silence. Still—it would be giving away a financial secret worth a lot of money to tell Watkins all he knew—and to tell Watkins would be shouting it to the whole of Auto Row.

"Let me think the thing out, Watkins," decided Fred. "I'll talk it over with my wife and—"

"Good NIGHT!" Watkins broke out involuntarily. Then he apologized. "Sorry, old scout, didn't mean to be rude. But I do think women know less about a matter like this than we do. She's a splendid little woman—Mrs. Dale is, but suppose she talked—"

Fred rose. "Nevertheless I want to talk it over with her first."

Fred knew Watkins felt half contemptuous, but he stuck to his guns and that night he excitedly told Connie the whole story.

Connie listened, but her verdict was to reiterate her former words: "I don't like that woman, and never did, and never will. I can't explain why I don't trust her, but I distrust her more than ever now. Keep out of this whole thing, Fred, that's my advice."

No amount of argument, heated though it became, could budge Connie from her view. Fred began to wish he had taken Watkins' plan better to heart, and told Connie nothing. Her attitude was silly and unreasonable. He determined to act on his own judgment, not on Connie's "instinct." When he had a handsome return on his speculation it would be time enough to tell her—prove to her how unfounded were her fears.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some real troubles ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and my daughter."

Mrs. W. S. Hughes, Greenville, Del. Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

FIRST GRID TILT SATURDAY WITH DEPERE H. S. TEAM

Local High School Squad Ready to Meet DePere High in First Game

Kaukauna—Few people in this city seem to know that the local high school candidates for the football team have been out regularly every afternoon on municipal playgrounds receiving fast training for the beginning of the grid season. Coach William Waterpool is shy several "heavies" who graduated last year or who failed to return to school and has been worried about weight for his team.

However, the most promising candidates have been lined up to start the football year by winning from DePere high school Saturday afternoon. A very likely squad has turned out and it looks as though there will be little difficulty in securing the right combination.

John Hale, Mark Griffith, Richard Smith, Carl Anderson and several others who practically made last year's team are gone. "Frenchy" Perenteau, who showed so much ability in the backfield also has not returned to school. Predictions were made last year that he would be one of the most valuable assets to the team. On the other hand a few of last season's stars are on the job and are forming the nucleus of the team. Elmer Ott, probably the heaviest man on the squad, is assured the position as fullback. Ott was green at the game last year but his strength was not to be forgotten. Time after time, the fullback, nicknamed the "bull dog fullback" ploughed up the field with half the opposing team trying to down him.

Young Dix probably will make an excellent open field runner. He was too light last year but he has had experience in the game. "Deak" Luckow is back, short and snappy and probably will again be quarterback or second lineman.

Amay Bayorson, Milton Metz, Jacob Horde and others who played last year are among the candidates. A tentative lineup for Saturday's game probably will be announced Friday. The battle will begin promptly at 2:30. Officials for the game have not yet been announced.

Social Items

Kaukauna—A meeting of the Ladies of Mooseheart Legion will be held Thursday evening in south side Forester hall. Regular business will be transacted. Meetings twice monthly will be resumed beginning with this week. Sessions were held monthly only during the summer.

"Lam Pakuod" kilted at 10:15. The church orchestra, choir, and male quartet will give special numbers. Sunday school will be held at 9 o'clock, the usual time and the Rally day program will follow.

All your skin asks is fair play; all it needs for satin smoothness and radiant youthful beauty is health. The difference between a child's skin and yours is not one of years, but of health.

After many years' research and experiment, Dr. Guy Otis Brewster, the eminent New York specialist, discovered a combination of remedial and corrective ingredients which stimulates blood circulation and regulates the sweat ducts and oil glands in the cutis, or under skin.

He called his discovery OPAZEL. Its extensive use in Dr. Brewster's private practice has proved that OPAZEL restores in the adult skin, the precise physical conditions present in the skin of a child.

ARCH REST (Pat. Pending)

The Arch Rest is not a freak shoe, but as its name implies it is a help, a rest to the arch suffering the first stages of weakness. By employing its help when the first signs of weakness appear many women have developed a strong, normal arches, which without this aid would have gone down, with all the consequent ills.

The Arch Rest while corrective in effect is a stylish shoe, built upon standard lasts. It is really a high grade "regular shoe" with this great advantage added. The beauty and grace of the lines are not affected, unless perhaps the general effect is improved, for the perfectly fitting comfortable shoe looks best. Because of the increased strength where most needed, through the use of the bridged shank which acts as a backbone and holds the arch in its natural position, the shoe fits better and consequently wears longer.

We have a complete line of these, both shoes or oxfords in brown or black.

STATE LEADS WAR ON BOVINE T. B.

Wisconsin still maintains its lead in the nationwide war on tuberculosis among cattle. Iron, Douglas and Chippewa counties have been added to those having all cattle tested for tuberculosis. In all, Wisconsin now has seven counties with tuberculosis tested cattle, four in which work is progressing and two others that have petitioned the department of agriculture for countywide test, and a dozen more which are securing signers for such tests.

Wisconsin not only leads the nation in the greatest number of tested herds, but also in the number of accredited herds. There were tested under the accredited herd plan 518 herds containing 11,476 cattle; 416 animals reacted to the tuberculin test.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way

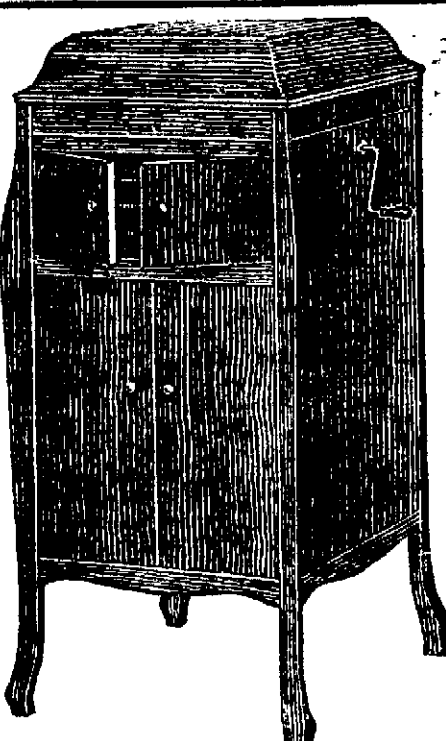

THE public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produce skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures," over-effective, weakening and gripping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Many take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin once a week as a health safeguard. Others use it only when required, as, for example, Mrs. J. W. Borroughs of Little Rock, Ark., who finds it equally valuable for herself and the children, and Mr. Enas S. Coats of Watsonville, Cal., whose family uses it regularly. Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in constipation, biliousness, piles, headaches, sallow complexion, and to break up fevers and colds. A generous-size bottle can be had at any drug store, and it costs only about a cent a dose!

CITY MAY EXTEND NORTH LIMITS INTO GRAND CHUTE TOWN

Request for Water Service Starts Move—Many Problems Taken Up

The first draft of the new motor bus ordinance on which the ordinance committee and Aldermen Euse, Lappen, Wood and Callahan are at work and which will undergo revision before it is finally presented was read at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening in order to get an expression from the aldermen. It precipitated a discussion more as to the necessity of the ordinance than as to the regulations it contained and no suggestions were offered.

The soot nuisance which he claimed had become almost unbearable was brought up by Alderman Laabs who moved that the mayor appoint a committee to investigate the matter. It was brought out there was an ordinance covering the question which required smokestacks to be 135 feet in height. The committee appointed by the mayor consisted of Aldermen Smith, Wood and Beske.

ADJUST LIGHTS
Attention was called by Alderman Lappen to the condition of some of the street lights, the globes of which he said were partially filled with bugs and other insects and needed cleaning. Special mention was made of the one at the corner of Lawrence and Appleton streets and those at the ends of the bridge on Lawrence street. The matter was referred to the committee on street lighting.

A communication from the Appleton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution protesting against changing the names of streets named after early pioneers and those bearing Indian names in all more than a score, was referred to the committee on streets and bridges.

DISALLOW CLAIM
The judiciary committee recommended that the claim of C. Coon be disallowed and that the Jackson street action be discontinued and that a new one be started. It was said that to carry the matter to the supreme court would occasion a delay of six months, while a new action could be commenced at any time. The action concerns the opening of the street against which property owners are protesting.

The application for water service of a property owner on the extension of Richmond street in the town of Grand Chute precipitated a lively discussion. Some of the aldermen were opposed to extending such service to persons who contribute nothing to the city in the way of taxes while others proposed that the city limits be extended so as to include the property owners of that part of the town. The city attorney was instructed to render an opinion as to the steps necessary to take such action.

REMOVE PAVILION
City Engineer Weisgerber protested against dances being held at Pierce park because of the scattering of broken pop bottles which are liable to damage automobile tires and because of the general litter that is left by the crowd. He said the pavilion was erected by the Foresters with the understanding it was to be removed after their celebration, but that dances given by private parties were still being held. He was instructed to see that the pavilion was removed within 24 hours after the dance Thursday evening. The board of public works was ordered to draft rules governing the city parks upon the aldermen being informed that considerable damage was being done to park property.

EXTEND TIME
Thirteen owners of bathhouses near Lehman's landing, who had been ordered to remove them requested an extension of time until the first of the year when the river is frozen, as to attempt to do so now would be a difficult matter. The request was granted.

The matter of caring for the drainage of an old wooden sewer on College avenue which has been causing the contractors of the new Tammany building considerable trouble was referred to the committee on streets and bridges. Permission was granted to the owner of the new building for the construction of an opening four feet square in the sidewalk for the accommodation of freight and coal.

WANT PARK JOBS
Communications from two landscape gardeners, Hanson of Wauwatosa and Bushey of Beloit concerning the beautifying of Pierce and Erb parks was read by the clerk. Mayor Reuter was of the opinion it would be advisable to have plans made for beautifying these parks so that improvements could be made along definite lines instead of in a haphazard manner, but as the city was not ready to take up the matter at this time the communications were referred to the board of public works. The license of William Heiman, who was convicted of having moonshine in his possession and is serving a sentence at the workhouse, was revoked. A claim of $40 damage to fancy poultry by a dog belonging to a neighbor presented by Charles Lausmann, who suggested that a committee be appointed to investigate as required by the statutes, was read. It was said the owner had agreed to dispose of the dog, but no reference was made as to the damage. The birds were being groomed for a poultry show.

REPORT FILED
George P. McGilgan, chief of the fire department, presented his report on the national convention of fire chiefs at San Francisco which was read and placed on file. The matter of plowing and leveling the open spaces in Erb park was referred to the committee on streets and bridges. The committee on streets and bridges recommended the filling in of depressions on certain streets, the repairing of the pavement at the foot of Pearl street, and the building of sidewalks in front of certain lots in Garfield place.

WANTS CITY TO GO INTO FUEL DEALING

Mayor Reuter Gives Little Thought to Proposal of Timber Land Owner

Mayor Henry Reuter received a letter from Werner R. Larson of Ironwood, Mich., offering a partial remedy to Appleton in the present impending fuel situation.

"I have an estimate of 9,585 short cords of hardwood, maple and birch, not yet cut," Mr. Larson said, "located on the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway, with excellent shipping facilities."

"I will send this to your city at 90 cents per cord on the stump in the whole lot. Your city would have to do its own operating and could lay the wood down in Appleton at about $2 per cord, which would be more than cutting the price in two, as short cordwood is now selling at from $4.50 to $6."

"It seems to me this would be very appealing to your city, especially if you operate your own fuel yard or propose to do so this season. I am making this offer to several of the cities of central Wisconsin."

Mayor Reuter, who has had considerable experience in the wood business as a former manufacturer of hubs and spokes, knows the wood could not be laid down in Appleton at the price as quoted and did not take the letter seriously.

Sell Two Homes
Laabs & Shepherd have sold a residence on Ryan street belonging to Mrs. Mary Weiler to B. G. Rassmussen and George Dunsirn's residence on Outagamie street to Mrs. Elizabeth Bruhl. The consideration in each instance was private.

Allderman Laabs called attention to the necessity of the city acquiring the property in the big ravine on the north side of College avenue before it is too late if it expects at any time to erect a community building. He said he knew of no better location for such a structure and that the property could be acquired at a nominal figure.

Turns Study To Play In Lincoln Reading Classes

School work is made merely an other form of play by Miss Ruth Loan, eighth grade teacher in Lincoln school, who has succeeded in making reading lessons so interesting the pupils have taken extra time to find pictures and examples to illustrate Washington Irving's famous "Rip Van Winkle."

The children were first allowed to read the narrative through merely for the story. Later they went over it again and "culled" it to pieces. An exhibit which includes everything from wooden shoes to a real picture of a Holland girl taken by one of the teachers, was gathered together and helped in adding interest to the work. The teacher's aim in the plan was to develop appreciation for good stories in the minds of the pupils and she evidently has been successful. The story has been finished and only two persons in the entire group admitted that they had not liked the story as it was taken up by the class.

"Had the animal at my mercy I thought of Aubrac apologized, when suddenly he drew that knife struck me and broke away."

"I understand," Duchemin replied. "But on talk You'll want all your strength my friend!"

With his pocket knife he laid open the sudden sleeves of coat and shirt exposing an upper arm stained dark with blood that welled in ugly jets from a cut both wide and deep. Arteries severed he announced and straightened up and looked about at a loss. My pack—

The woman who had spoken to him found and fetched it from no great distance and its contents enabled Duchemin to improvise a tourniquet, and when the flow of blood was checked a bandage—

With a subtle disposed as com fortably as might be in the barouche Duchemin turned to find the other women at his elbow.

To the eldest he offered a bow suited to her condition and a hand to help her into the barouche.

"Madame—
The gentle inclination of the aged head which acknowledged his cour tesy was as eloquent of her quality as he found the name which she gave him in quavering accents.

"Madame de Sevenie monsieur."

"With madame's permission I am Andre Duchemin."

"Monsieur Duchemin has placed us all deeply in his debt, Louise— The girl in the carriage looked up and bowed murmuring 'Mademoiselle de Montalais monsieur my granddaugh ter.' And Eve— She turned to the third, to her whose voice of delight ful accent was not in Duchemin's notion wholly French. 'Madame de Montalais my daughter by adoption widow of my grandson who died elor jously for his country at La Fere Champenoise."

When the brilliant member of the English Secret Service known as ANDRAE DUCHEMIN attempted to throw the Bolsheviks off his trail by taking a walking tour in Southern France he encountered adventures even more hazardous than those he attempted to avoid. After a terrific battle with a Parisian Apache Duchemin rescues from high waymen.

"When she had graciously permitted Duchemin to assist her to a place in the carriage Madame Sevenie turned immediately to comfort her grand daughter. It was easy to divine an attachment there between a dashing and Louise de Montalais. Duchemin fancied (and as it turned out rightly) the two were betrothed."

But Madame de Montalais was claiming his attention.

Momentarily a hand slender and firm and cool rested in his own. Then its owner as settling into place beside Madame de Cevenie and Duchemin clambering up to his on the box. The road proved quite rough and de cisions Duchemin was grateful for the moonlight—until he remem bered that without the moon there would have been no expedition that night to view the mock ruins of Mont pellier by its unearthly light and consequently no adventure to entangle him.

Upon this reflection he swore soft ly but most fervently into his becom ing beard. He was well fed up with adventures, thank you and could have done very well without this latest.

"What now of the comfortable pseu donymity of Andre Duchemin? Posing in an inescapable glare of publicity how long might he hope to escape recognition by some acquaintance, friend or enemy? Heaven knew he had enough of both sorts scattered widely over the face of Europe!"

It seemed hard indeed—

At La Roque it was as Duchemin had foreseen. Whereas the motor car was waiting safe and sound enough its chauffeur had vanished into thin air. Whereupon Duchemin asked whether the chauffeur had been a stout man, and being informed that it was so considered the case com plete. Madame de Sevenie de Montalais he suggested might give up all hope of ever again seeing that particular chauffeur.

The landlord of the auberge, a surviv sor who had supplied the barouche with the man to act as driver and guide in one took with ill grace the charge that his employee had been in league with the bandits. But this was true on the word of Madame de Montalais it was their guide, she said whom Duchemin had driven over the cliff. And as Duchemin had an ticipated her name alone proved enough to silence the landlords vir tuous protestations.

Seated beside Madame de Montalais Duchemin watched her operate the car with skilful hands on the road to Nant.

The sweep of night air in his face was sweet and smooth and stroked his eyelids with touches as bland as caresses of a plectrum woman's fingers.

It was good to be alive tonight alive and weary and not ill content with self, in a motor car swinging swiftly and silently along a river road in the hills of southern France with a woman lovely and mysterious at the wheel.

Duchemin was conscious of some thing like a shock of emotion a sudden surging of some hunger that had long lain dormant in his being un suspected how long he could not surmise gaining strength in latency, waiting to be awakened and set free by one careless sidelong look and smile of a strange woman.

Eve he whispered unheard. Eve de Montalais—

CHAPTER V

Phinuit & Co

In the upshot however legal neces sity had nothing to do with the length of time devoted to Monsieur Duche min to kicking idle heels in the town of Nant, where the civil authorities proved considerate in a degree that gratified and surprised the confirmed Parisian.

The driver guide of La Roque turned out to have been a thorough paced scamp well and ill known to the gendarmes the wound sustained by Monsieur d'Aubrac bore testimony to the gravity of the affair. amply excusing Duchemin's interference and its fatal sequel.

Late in the afternoon of his second day in Nant Duchemin let his vision dwell upon the distant chateau al most as constantly as his thoughts.

He was to dine there that very evening. He had yet to hold one minute of private conversation with Eve de Montalais and yet—

Now he had seen Madame de Mon talais another time and had found that she fitted to the sweetest detail of perfection his ideal of Woman.

On the previous afternoon meet ing the ladies of the chateau by ar rangement in the bureau of the mayor Duchemin had sat opposite and watched and listened to Eve de Mon talais for upward of two hours.

Posed with consummate elegance in her half mourning she had narrated quietly her version of last night's mis adventure, an occasional tremor of humor lightening the moving modu lations of her voice. A deep and vi brant voice contralto in quality hint ing at hidden treasures of strength. A fair woman, slim but round with brown eyes level and calm a trans lucent skin of matchless texture hair the hue of bronze laced with intima tions of gold—

Her age she said was twenty nine her birthplace the City of New York her parents, Edmund An struther once of Bath England but at the time of her birth a natural ized citizen of the United States and Eve Marie Anstruther, nee Legendre, of Paris. Both were dead. In June 1914 she had married in Paris Victor Mauri de Montalais, who had been killed in action at La Fere Champennoise on the ninth of September follow ing. Her home? The Chateau de Montalais.

On the hand Duchemin saw a hue diamond of such superb water that this amateur of precious stones caught his breath for sheer wonder at its beauty and excellence and worth. Such jewels he knew were few and far to seek outside the collections of princes.

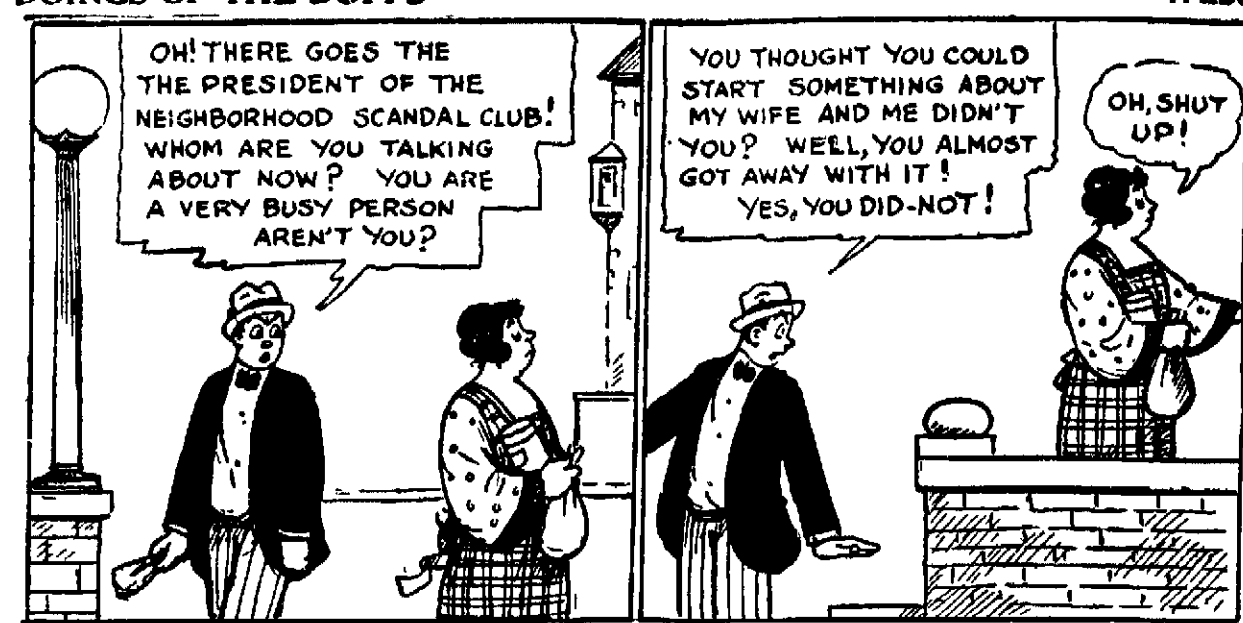

The mellow resonance of a two-toned automobile horn disturbing Duchemin's meditations, recalled him to Nant in time to see a touring car of majestic proportions which was sweeping a fine curve round two sides of the public square.

Instantly as the wheels ceased to turn a young man in the smartest lively imaginable green garbished with gold leaped smartly from the driver's seat with military precision opened the door of the tonneau and holding it immobilized himself into the semblance of a waxwork image with the dispassionate eye the firm mouth and the closely razored square jaws of the model chauffeur.

FUEL LACK MAY INCREASE FIRES

The present fuel shortage in the country is increasing fire hazards, in the opinion of fire insurance underwriters. With fire prevention week, Oct. 2 to 9 near, householders and business men have been requested to exercise care in the selection of coal and in the storage and use of it.

Since the west will not supply the usual supply of anthracite, much soft coal is being stored in basements of dwellings and mercantile establishments and on factory premises. Spontaneous combustion is likely to start serious fires.

Large amounts of soot deposits from soft coal often clog the smoke pipes and chimneys and lead to defective flue fires. Many are thinking of using fuel and kerosene burners in furnaces, because of the difficulty in procuring anthracite and their unwillingness to burn soft coal. This brings more serious hazards because of storage. No appliance, it is pointed out, should be installed without first ascertaining whether it complies with underwriters' requirements.

Marinette-Menominee Club Gets Franchise In Wisconsin League

Patrick H. Ryan, Appleton, Chosen Vice President—May Stage Series Between Manitowoc and Sheboygan.

Green Bay — Marinette-Menominee was granted a franchise for the season of 1923 in the Wisconsin State league at a meeting held here Thursday night. Several other applications including that of Escanaba, Mich., were discussed.

A committee from the league will meet with representatives of the baseball association in the Michigan city, next week. It is expected that Escanaba will get a franchise at the conference to be held in this city Sunday, Oct. 5.

Patrick H. Ryan, of Appleton, who was recently identified with the old Wisconsin-Illinois league has accepted the office of vice president. He is considered one of the leading baseball men in northeastern Wisconsin.

Manager Jack Herzog of the Manitowoc club, penultimate winners of the Wisconsin State league was urged by the board of directors to arrange a post-season series with Sheboygan, winner of the flag in the Kluwin circuit. It is the attitude that a series of this kind would boom baseball in this part of the state.

CZAR KLUWIN O. K.'S STATE TITLE GAMES

Says Manitowoc Didn't Violate Rules By Leaving League

Oshkosh—John Kluwin, president of the Wisconsin Valley league, announced here on Wednesday that he has given his consent to a post season series of games between the Sheboygan club, winners of the Valley league pennant, and the Manitowoc club, which won the championship in the Wisconsin State league.

"In so far as the Manitowoc club was not a member of the Fox River Valley league when the other league clubs, namely Menasha, Green Bay and Appleton, dropped out of the league and enrolled with the Wisconsin State league, the Valley league officials have decided that action against the Manitowoc club would not be justified," Kluwin said on Wednesday.

"BILL" FENSKE, AND STEBINO TO ADDRESS PIN MEN

Gathering At Eagle's Hall To Launch City Program on Alleys

That Appleton means to take up a prominent place on the map of ten pins is evident in the elaborate program arranged for Thursday night by the Appleton Bowling association.

the pin game, when the two men will deliver "talks" at Eagle's hall, 775 Washington-st. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Fenske has been invited to the Park City for the express purpose to aid the Appleton officers in launching the bowling season and at the same time inform the Appletonians just what is expected of the city association as a member of the Badger organization, what plans ought to be carried through and something about the state tournaments this winter.

There are approximately 75 to 100 teams in the city which are itching to roll the ball. While the Eagle alleys opened Wednesday night and the Arcade alleys open Thursday, several of the other mecca for pin knights are delaying official opening until the end of this month. This means that inter-city tournaments will not begin until Oct. 11.

It is also expected that the managers of the different alleys will announce Thursday night the list of organizations scheduled to roll on their floors and possibly arrange a program.

STRAIGHT PIGSKIN TACTICS PROGRAM OF BLUE AND WHITE

Line Plunging, Same As Used Last Year, Expected To Win Again

Straight football, the same tactics that won for Lawrence the Little Five honors in 1921, will be applied by Coach H. D. McChesney in the coming campaign.

The football mentor has demonstrated that yards can be best gained through line plunging rather than risk the ball by passes.

Practice programs are being expanded daily and with three and four squads under constant drill the Blue and White is gradually being shaped into the machine that is intended to romp off with the Little Five and northwest honors this year again. W. F. Ashe is handling the freshman squad and Buck and McChesney are in charge of the other groups.

With new material showing wonderful possibilities McChesney is keeping his eyes peeled constantly in an effort to pick the first team material. It is a little early to venture just who will fill the berths, but most of last year's veterans are giving the new men quite a run.

Signal practice and attention to individual players in their particular lines compose the main program for the week. Scrimmage work will start next week.

PIRATES REDUCE LEAD OF GIANTS

Home Run Spurt in Late Innings Reduce New Yorkers

New York—Pittsburg on Wednesday reduced New York's lead in the National league to four and a half games, winning the first contest of a three game series, 4 to 1. Pittsburg, however, still has six more defeats than the Giants. A burst of home run hitting late in the game decided the contest for Pittsburg. With the score tied in the seventh, Bigbee hit a home run into the right field stands with Carey on base. Cooper hit another home run into the same stand in the ninth.

Batteries: Cooper and Schmidt; McQuillan and Snyder.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER
Brooklyn—Brooklyn and St. Louis split a doubleheader played here Wednesday with Brooklyn winning the first game 6 to 1. St. Louis copped the second with 13 runs while the New Yorkers got 7.

Batteries: Doak, North, Sherdell, Knight, Barfoot, Haines and Ainsmith and Clemens; Cadore, Grimes and Miller and Deberry.

PHILLIES WIN BOTH
Philadelphia — Philadelphia won both ends of a double header from Chicago on Wednesday, 9 to 8 and 11 to 1. Lee's double with the bases filled in the ninth inning gave the locals the first game. Williams hit his twenty-fifth home run in this contest and Parkinson his twelfth. Aldridge and Morris were hit hard in the second game, while Behan allowed but seven hits. State's homer scoring the visitors' lone run. Parkinson hit another homer in the second game.

Batteries: Jones, Morris, Aldridge, Osborne, Steuland and O'Farrell and Hartnett; Behan, Winters, G. Smith, Meadows and Henline and Peters.

County League Teams Complete Schedule Of Year With Sunday Games

Tie Between Interlakes and Black Creek For Third Place May Remain If Both Should Cop—But.

The Outagamie County league will end its schedule with the finish of games Sunday afternoon.

Dale and Freedom will engage in a tilt at Freedom. Nelson and Schommer, who constituted the battery for Freedom throughout most of the summer, will again pitch and catch. Dale will have Niles for its hurler and Kuehl catcher. No matter what happens Freedom is destined to stay in the cellar having won two out of nine games. Dale is fifth with three games to the good out of eight played.

HORTONVILLE SECOND

Interlakes will invade Hortonville with O. Stenagel and O'Hanlon as its battery. Hortonville has second place clinched with six of its games won out of nine. Lukowitz will toe the box against the invaders, while Hoier will be behind the bat.

Manager Behrend of Kimberly, the pennant winning team of the circuit, will take his men to Black Creek. The Creeks are tied with Interlakes for third place and things look rather bad for them if they can't break the leader's winning streak. Behrend will have Frank Pleshek, pride of Kaukauna, twirl the game for him and in spite of the big lead he has, the Kimberly pilot is determined not to lose. He will have Clarence Poca in reserve should the Electric City hurler go to the bad. Poca is now free as the result of the close of the Wisconsin State league. Poca is largely responsible for most of the wins of his former team. Ryan will do the catching for Kimberly. Bramon will oppose the visitors at the box while Perry will catch.

The postponed game between Kimberly and Dale probably will not be played over unless Sunday's results will make a difference in the standing for fourth place. Should Dale win at Freedom it will climb to fourth place and possibly raise a holler from the team forced to fifth position on account of the lead given to Dale by the unplayed game. Then again should Dale win Sunday and win once more in the post-season game with Kimberly, Dale would tie the winner for place.

Should the postponed game be played over it will probably be staged Sept. 30 at Kimberly.
